U.S. Term Limits Praises Warren Davidson for Signing Term Limits Pledge

Washington, D.C. – U.S. Term Limits (USTL), the leader in the national movement to limit terms for elected officials, today praised Ohio U.S. House candidate Warren Davidson (District 8) for signing its congressional term limits pledge.

In November of last year, 14 new U.S. Term Limits pledge signers were elected to Congress – including five new U.S. Senators.

USTL President Philip Blumel commented on Davidson’s pledge, saying, “Warren Davidson has a lot of courage to make term limits a top priority in his campaign, and we applaud him for taking a strong stand on such an important issue.”

“We need more people like Warren Davidson, people who are committed the same ideals as our founding fathers. Our founding fathers wanted a citizen’s legislature, they wanted rotation in office, and they did not intend to have career politicians running our country. Mr. Davidson realizes this and supports term limits.

The U.S. Term Limits Amendment Pledge is provided to every announced candidate for federal office. It reads, “I pledge that as a member of Congress I will cosponsor and vote for the U.S. Term Limits amendment of three (3) House terms and two (2) Senate terms and no longer limit.”

The U.S. Term Limits Constitutional Amendment has been introduced in both the U.S. Senate by Senator David Vitter (R-LA) and the House of Representatives by Representative Matt Salmon (R-AZ).

Blumel noted, “Congress has forgotten they are accountable to the people, and the people are tired of Congress forgetting that being in office is supposed to be a service to your country. It is not supposed to be a career where they put their own self-interest before the needs of their constituents. Fortunately, with candidates like Warren Davidson emerging, and a building grassroots campaign putting increasing political pressure, we are going to reach our goal of the passage of a term limits amendment.”

According to the last nationwide poll on term limits conducted by Gallup, the issue enjoys wide bi-partisan support. The poll showed that 75% of Americans support congressional term limits.

Gallup’s analysis states, “Republicans and independents are slightly more likely than Democrats to favor term limits; nevertheless, the vast majority of all party groups agree on the issue. Further, Gallup finds no generational differences in support for the proposal.”

Blumel concluded, “America is in trouble. Career politicians have let the people down. It is time to limit their terms and return control of our nation to people who have actually had to create a job, earn an honest paycheck and pay a mortgage. It is time for a constitutional amendment limiting congressional terms.”

The term limits amendment bills would require a two-thirds majority in the House and Senate, and ratification by 38 states in order to become part of the constitution.
