U.S. Term Limits Praises James Duncan and Kay Daly for Signing Term Limits Pledge

Washington, D.C. – U.S. Term Limits (USTL), the leader in the national movement to limit terms for elected officials, today praised North Carolina U.S. House candidates James Duncan and Kay Daly, both candidates are in District 2, for signing its congressional term limits pledge.

In November of last year, 14 new U.S. Term Limits pledge signers were elected to Congress – including five new U.S. Senators.

USTL President Philip Blumel commented on Thomas’ and Daly’s pledge, saying, “We applaud both James Duncan and Kay Daly for having the courage to make congressional term limits a top priority of their campaigns. Unfortunately Congresswoman Renee Ellmers, the current incumbent since 2010 for that district, has not signed our pledge and has not responded to our previous attempts to reach her.”

“Duncan and Daly’s support of term limits shows their commitment to preventing career politicians and to the founders’ idea of a citizen legislature. We can only hope that Congresswoman Ellmers will sign our pledge and show she is also as committed to working toward the founding fathers goals as Duncan and Daly.”

The U.S. Term Limits Amendment Pledge is provided to every announced candidate for federal office. It reads, “I pledge that as a member of Congress I will cosponsor and vote for the U.S. Term Limits amendment of three (3) House terms and two (2) Senate terms and no longer limit.”

The U.S. Term Limits Constitutional Amendment has been introduced in both the U.S. Senate by Senator David Vitter (R-LA) and the House of Representatives by Representative Matt Salmon (R-AZ).

Blumel noted, “People are fed up with career politicians in D.C. who put their own self-interest before the needs of their constituents. Fortunately, having multiple candidates like Duncan and Daly emerging, political pressure will continue to build toward the passage of a term limits amendment.”

According to the last nationwide poll on term limits conducted by Gallup, the issue enjoys wide bi-partisan support. The poll showed that 75% of Americans support congressional term limits.

Gallup’s analysis states, “Republicans and independents are slightly more likely than Democrats to favor term limits; nevertheless, the vast majority of all party groups agree on the issue. Further, Gallup finds no generational differences in support for the proposal.”

Blumel concluded, “America is in trouble. Our career politicians have let the people down. It is time to limit their terms and return control of our nation to people who have actually had to create a job, earn an honest paycheck and pay a mortgage. It is time for a constitutional amendment limiting congressional terms.”

The term limits amendment bills would require a two-thirds majority in the House and Senate, and ratification by 38 states in order to become part of the constitution.
