U.S. Term Limits Praises Glen Robertson for Signing Term Limits Pledge

Washington, D.C. – U.S. Term Limits (USTL), the leader in the national movement to limit terms for elected officials, today praised Texas U.S. House candidate Glen Robertson (District 19) for signing its congressional term limits pledge.

In November of 2014, 14 new U.S. Term Limits pledge signers were elected to Congress – including five new U.S. Senators.

USTL President Philip Blumel commented on Robertson’s pledge, saying, “We applaud Glen Robertson for his commitment to cleaning up Congress and ending the problem of career politicians. It took courage to take such a principled stance and to make this issue a key part of his campaign.”

“Robertson’s support of term limits shows that we still have candidates out there that are willing to work for the principles of our founding fathers. We still have candidates that see the importance of citizen legislators running Congress, not career politicians. Robertson’s knows the importance of rotation in office for those who are given the honor to serve the people.

The U.S. Term Limits Amendment Pledge is provided to every announced candidate for federal office. It reads, “I pledge that as a member of Congress I will cosponsor and vote for the U.S. Term Limits amendment of three (3) House terms and two (2) Senate terms and no longer limit.”

The U.S. Term Limits Constitutional Amendment has been introduced in both the U.S. Senate by Senator David Vitter (R-LA) and the House of Representatives by Representative Matt Salmon (R-AZ).

Blumel noted, “People are fed up with career politicians in D.C. who put their own self-interest before the needs of their constituents. Fortunately, with candidates like Glen Robertson emerging, political pressure will continue to build toward the passage of a term limits amendment.”

According to the last nationwide poll on term limits conducted by Gallup, the issue enjoys wide bi-partisan support. The poll showed that 75% of Americans support congressional term limits.

Gallup’s analysis states, “Republicans and independents are slightly more likely than Democrats to favor term limits; nevertheless, the vast majority of all party groups agree on the issue. Further, Gallup finds no generational differences in support for the proposal.”

Blumel concluded, “Career politicians are no longer working under the principles laid down by our founding fathers, who wanted a citizen legislature. These career politicians have let the people down. It is time Congress is returned to the people. It is time for a constitutional amendment limiting congressional terms.”

The term limits amendment bills would require a two-thirds majority in the House and Senate, and ratification by 38 states in order to become part of the constitution.
